CARDS of THANKS

I would like to thank everyone for the flowers, cards and visits while I was in the hospital and since I have been home. Mrs. Clyde Hale

I wish to express my sincere thanks and gratitude to all who worked for and supported me in the recent school board election. The result of the voting was an indication of confidence in the old board's actions to date and a clear cut mandate to them to get on with the business of building the new school. I strongly urge all to unite behind them in this effort, forget petty grievances, and support your duly elected school board. William E. Hilz

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all my friends who supported me for re-election to the Pilot Point School Board. I will continue to do all I can for the best interest of the school and taxpayers. Albert Duesman.

Thank you for the support given me in the Saturday School Board election. My platform remains the same. Mrs. Jessie Nail.

Helicopters Play Key Relief Role in L.A. Earthquake

The recent Los Angeles area earthquake demonstrated the effectiveness of helicopters when disaster strikes.

The quake struck at 6:01 a.m. February 9, and by 7 a.m. the Los Angeles City Police Department had eight of its nine Bell helicopters in the area, about 25 miles northwest of downtown L.A. Lt. James R. Beall, officer in charge of the helicopter section had his ships flying aerial reconnaissance over Van Norman Dam; providing closed circuit television coverage to the Police Mobile Field Command Post; coordinating traffic in the evacuated area, and providing aerial protection against looters. Lt. Claude Cooper of the County Sheriff's Department pressed five Bells and two Hughes machines into service, surveying damage at the Olive View and V.A. Hospital sites, where 48 of the 64 victims perished. Medical personnel and supplies were transported by helicopter to those areas from many parts of the county.

The fire department's helicopters shuttled doctors, blood and plasma.

The news media helicopters disseminated disaster news and evacuation orders, while industry-operated helicopters were made available to transport rescue workers and equipment.

Church will be at 7 a.m. Sunday.

A Buying Hint

"Read the label" is the advice offered by Charles O'Connor, baler twine and wire product manager for New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand Corporation.

About 92 billion feet of twine are used by farmers in the United States and Canada each year. Twine is purchased by using a combination of the weight of the twine bale, the length of the twine in the bale, and the strength of the twine.

The American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE) places its seal of approval on correctly labeled twine, he said.

TEXAS ANIMAL HEALTH COMMISSION ORDERS 60-DAY SWINE RESTRICTION

The Texas Animal Health Commission has ordered a 60-day restriction on the movement of swine in Texas, effective March 29, to control hog cholera.

The movement of all feeder and breeder swine within the state will be allowed only by permits issued after inspection of the herd from which they originate.

Hogs for slaughter can move to a packing house or to a public market without inspection and without written permits, according to Woodrow W. Bailey, Extension livestock and meats specialist.

Once at the market they can't be legally taken home or sold as feeders. Offenders are subject to fines, according to Bailey.

Bailey also said that any special breeder or feeder sales must be cleared with authorities in the animal health commission. Written permission can be granted with certain requirements, including on the farm inspection.

Hogs going to shows must be inspected on the farm, earmarked or tagged, and accompanied by a written permit. Bailey added that hogs can be moved one time with no diversion enroute from one farm to another if they are inspected on the farm and moved under permit.

The USDA announced March 24 that producers may no longer remove apparently healthy animals from their swine herds infected by or exposed to hog cholera.

How to choose the proper light bulb

New bulb labeling helps you make the right choice

By checking the information on the bulb jackets, you can select the bulb that will best serve your lighting requirements. Information included shows the brightness (or lumens) the bulb will deliver . . . how many hours the bulb may be expected to burn . . . and wattage, or the amount of electricity the bulb uses. In areas where less light is needed or where changing bulbs is more difficult, you may want the "longer-life" bulbs which last longer but usually deliver less brightness. For study or work areas you should choose bulbs that deliver more brightness.
